Preface

We have always made an effort to keep education relevant to learner needs. As part of the New Education Policy 2020, which emphasises experiential learning and a child's overall growth in order to prepare him to become a responsible adult, we focus on writing books that follow these principles.

In order to facilitate the application of information and growth that will support the learner's meaningful future, we encourage teachers, educators, and guardians to support growing these competencies in the learner.

The interior of the 1–8 NEP books includes interactive elements from the New Education Policy as well as chapters with Learning Objectives, Warm-ups, Teacher's Notes, Introductions, Let Me Answer, Fact Finder, Health and Wellness, Summary, Logical Decision-making, Let's Practice, Conceptual Understanding, Communication and Writing skills as main highlights.

NEP-based novels are produced by incorporating 21st-century skills including teamwork, and application knowledge using a cross-curricular approach. By using this method, rote learning will be replaced with competency-based learning.

We have incorporated a structure to guarantee the quality of education in accordance with new NEP principles in order to improve children's capacity for moral decision-making and learning through the environment within the classroom. To ensure that students complete the lessons, teachers can do a variety of things to make the classroom engaging and interesting.

All elements of the National Education Policy, including self-awareness, self-management, social awareness, responsible decision-making, relationship skills, and self-responsibility, are covered in our 1–8 book series.

We urge parents, guardians, and educators to support the development of these competencies in students in order to foster the use of knowledge and growth.

How to be a good friend

A good friend is who support you, forgive you, admire you and stand by you all the time.

I will be a good friend by:

--	--	--	--

Aditi and Rajat were good friends. They had so much fun together. They sat together in the class. They ran races on the way home. They were always cheerful.

One day, Aditi came into the classroom slowly. She did not look at anybody. She looked sad.

"Did someone scold you?" asked Rajat.

Aditi shook her head. She sat down and did not look up. She did not even answer 'Present!' when the class teacher called out her name.

The teacher called out again, louder this time. "Aditi Sen!" Aditi raised her hand.

"Do you have a sore throat?", the teacher asked her. Aditi shook her head. Her cheeks were red and it looked like she had a fever.

"Are you feeling okay?", The teacher asked.

Aditi nodded, still not daring to look up.

"Why does Aditi look so sad?"

"Is your little brother okay?"

"Is your puppy okay?"

"Is your grandmother okay?"

Aditi kept nodding her head to each of her friends. But she did not look up.

Rajat wanted to make her smile. He had an idea! He took out something from his bag.

As he ran to show it to Aditi, it slipped out of his hands. Aditi saw something flying towards her and she grabbed it.

It was a big green, rubber frog!

Aditi's eyes flew open. Then she opened her mouth to laugh.

Only then did Rajat and her other friends see why she had not smiled or talked all day. Four of her front teeth had gone missing!

The Milkmaid and her Pail

One day, Mini, the milkmaid was going to the market. She was carrying a pail of milk on her head.

As she went along she began thinking about what she would do with the money she would get by selling milk.

"I'll buy some hens from Mrs. Rahim. The hens would lay eggs each morning. I will then sell the eggs." she said.

"I will then buy myself a pink frock and red shoes with the money I earn."

"I will dress myself and go to the market.
Everyone will look at me
as I will look beautiful.
My friend Seema will be very jealous, but why should I care. I shall look at her and toss my head."

As she spoke, she tossed her head back, the pail fell off.
All the milk was spilt. Sadly,
she went back home.

A Ride in the Metro

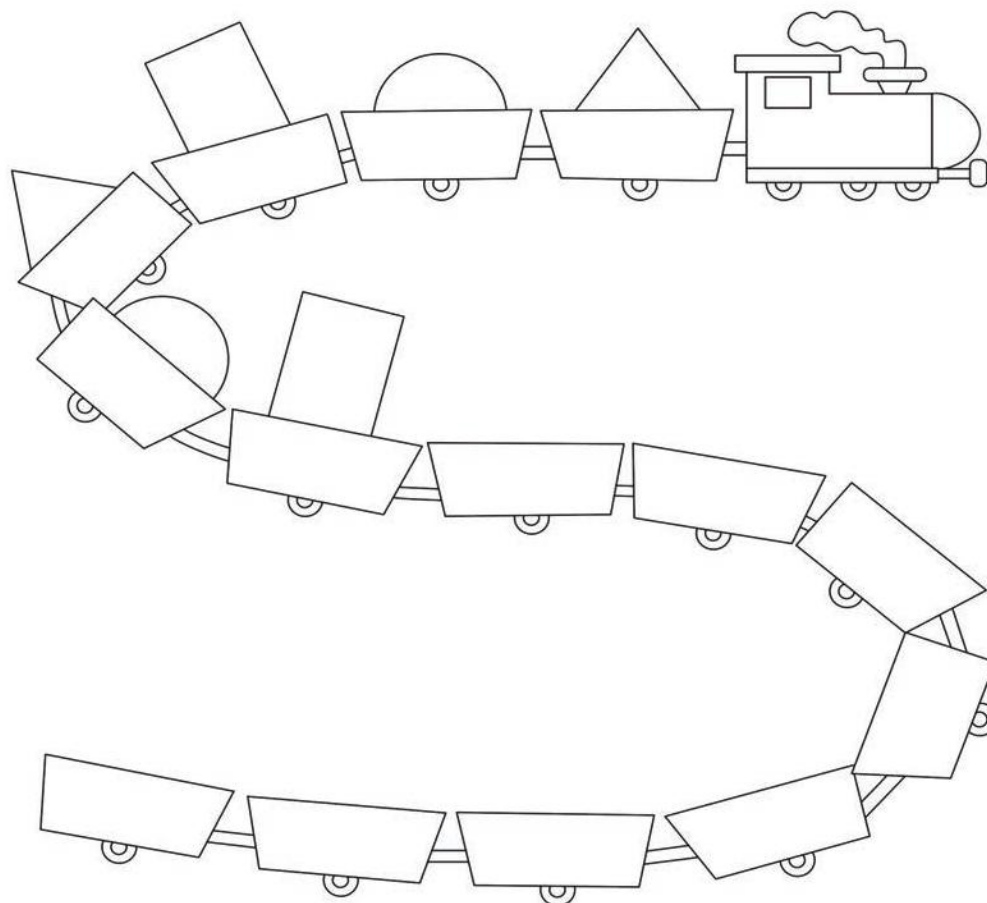

Learning Objectives

- Enjoying the ride in the metro.
- Analysing how it works in Delhi.

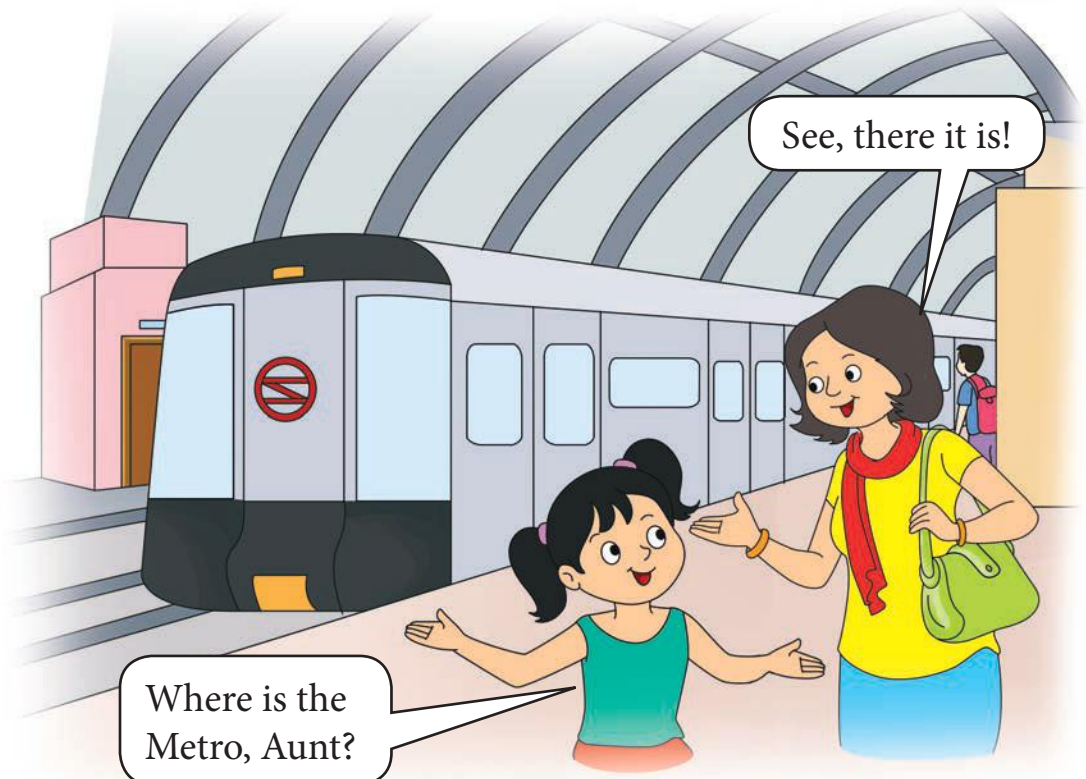

Warm-up

Trains are an important mode of travelling. It can take people from one city to another in a very short span of time. Let's play the game given below. Follow the pattern given below and draw shapes and colour them. Good Luck!

Simran and Pinku were getting ready to visit their uncle, aunt and cousin Atul. Their uncle and aunt lived in Delhi. Simran and Pinku belonged to a small town called Medinipur. Medinipur has cars, buses, rickshaws and cycles. But the small town does not have the Metro services. So, the children were eager to see the Metro.

“Underground!”

asked Pinku surprisingly.

“Look!” Simran said,
“A moving stair!”

“It's an escalator,” Atul explained.

“It's safe,” Neetu aunt said.

“You can hold the handrail and step off in time.”

Then Neetu aunt went to the counter to get the tokens.

“What's our train called?”
Simran
asked, “looking around.”

“Metro trains don't have names,” Atul told.

“Then how will we know which train to get into?”

Pinku asked. “Each train has a different coloured line on it,” Neetu aunt said as she came back with the tokens. “We will take the blue line. Come on!” The children followed their aunt to a small gate. “Touch your tokens here,” said Neetu aunt. “The gate will open for you! But keep your tokens carefully with you.” They touched their token on the gate and entered the platform. “How beautiful the platform is!” Simran said with surprise. “Yes,” agreed Pinku, “So clean too!” “Here's our train!” said Neetu aunt.

--	-------------------------------------

My dream meal...

	I want to eat
--	-----------------------------------

Long time ago, there lived a poor Brahmin in a village. He was all alone in this world. He had no one of his own. He had no relatives or friends. He used to beg for his living. Whatever food he got as alms, he kept in an earthen pot and hung it beside his bed. Whenever he felt hungry he took out some food from the pot and ate it.

One day, the Brahmin lay on his bed and soon he fell asleep. He began to dream- He was no longer a poor Brahmin. He wore good clothes. He was the owner of a shop.

Hundreds of customers came to his shop. Soon he became richer than before. He purchased many buffaloes and cows.

Very soon the buffaloes and cows had their young ones. Those young ones grew and became buffaloes and cows. The buffaloes and cows gave milk. He made a lot of butter and curd from the milk. He sold butter and curd in the market. Soon he became richer than ever before. He built a big house for himself. Then he married a beautiful girl. Soon they had their children.

The children played around all day making noise. He then scolded them and asked them to keep quiet. But they didn't listen. So he picked up a stick and ran after them.

The Brahmin began to move his legs rapidly while he was still asleep. In doing so, he hit the earthen pot with one of his legs which was full of food.

The pot broke and the food were spilled all over the floor. Suddenly the Brahmin woke up from his deep sleep. He found himself in the bed. The food items he had kept in the pot were scattered on the ground. He felt sad. This happened due to his day dreaming. He realized that he should not have built castles in the air.

There lived three tortoises; Papa tortoise, Mama tortoise and Baby tortoise in a tiny house of a city.

One fine day, Papa tortoise said, 'Let's go for a picnic. I hear there is a beautiful lake in Hyderabad called the Hussain Sagar lake. 'What a fine idea!' shouted Baby tortoise. 'Hurrah!' shouted Baby tortoise. 'Let's go at once!' The three tortoises made some chapattis and some tasty chutney. They packed the food into two small picnic baskets.

'Come along Baby,' she shouted, 'It's time to go. Where are you?'

'I'm in the kitchen, Mama,' he replied.

'Well, bring the picnic baskets, and hurry up,' said Mama tortoise.

'We've got a long way to go.'

Baby tortoise picked up a picnic basket and rushed out of the kitchen. They walked and walked and walked! After about five months, at 5 o' clock one morning, the tortoise family stopped for a rest. After another five months they finally arrived at the Hussain Sagar lake. 'Oh how beautiful it is!' exclaimed Papa tortoise. Baby tortoise found some small stones and began to throw them into the water. But after a while he became bored with this game.

'Let's have our picnic lunch now', he said. 'I'm hungry.'

Papa tortoise spread the blanket over the grass. Mama tortoise began to unpack the lunch. Suddenly, Mama tortoise gave out a long wail. 'Oh no!' she cried. 'Baby tortoise, I asked you to bring the picnic baskets, but you only brought one. Why did you not bring the chutney?' 'I had some nuts in one hand,' said Baby tortoise. 'I didn't see the other...'

He didn't finish the sentence, but burst into tears. 'No, No' said Papa tortoise. 'Don't cry. Run back to the house and fetch the chutney. You forgot to bring it, so you must fetch it.' Baby tortoise dried his eyes. 'All right,' he said. 'I'll go. But promise not to eat up the chapattis while I am away.' Papa and Mama tortoise promised.

The baby tortoise went off to fetch the chutney. Papa tortoise lay back on the grass and nodded off. Mama tortoise put on her spectacles and studied the flowers nearby.

An hour passed and then a day. The weeks passed and a month went by. The months became a year. Baby tortoise did not return.

Papa tortoise said, "I am feeling a little hungry. Do you think we can have a nibble at one of the chapatis?"

Mama tortoise opened the picnic basket and began to take out a chapatti. Just then they heard a loud shout. They looked up to see Baby tortoise coming out from behind a large bush.

'Ahaa' cried Baby tortoise, as he came near. 'I knew you would cheat. It's good thing that I didn't go home for the chutney. I knew you would eat the chapattis when I was not here.'

Anni and Tom raced through the front door into the living room. Tom grabbed the remote control from the coffee table and switched on the TV. Anni tossed her school bag on the sofa and took her seat in front of the TV.

“Oh! I can’t wait a minute to see what the Crazy Cat is going to do today,” Anni said.

“I know. He _____.” Tom stopped a while when he saw a different show on instead.

‘Did you put on the wrong channel?’ Anni asked a little bit worried.
“No.” Tom flipped to the TV guide channel and searched. “It’s not on.”

He searched the next day too. “Nothing.”

Anni rushed over to the computer and searched the Internet for “Adventures of Crazy Cat.”

She gasped when she found what she was looking for. They cancelled the show.

“What?” Tom read the screen over her shoulder. “What do we do now?”

Meanwhile their elder brother Tarun entered the room.

“Hey, guys !
Did you hear about Crazy Cat?” Anni and Tom nodded.

“What are we going to watch now?” Anni asked.
I loved crazy cat. He reminded me of Oscar.”

She turned to her fat tabby cat sitting in her school bag on the sofa. Only Oscar's head was peeking out.

Yeah, Oscar is really doing crazy stuff."

"I have a good idea." Tarun disappeared and returned within a minute with a video camera.

Why don't you two follow Oscar around and make your own 'Adventures of Crazy Cat' show?

Tarun asked Anni and Tom.

Anni and Tom looked at each other and smiled. Tom grabbed the video camera from his elder brother Tarun. Anni grabbed Oscar's favourite toy which seemed to be football that was bigger than he was.

"And start the action now !" Tarun said.

Anni rolled the football across the floor and Oscar jumped out of the school bag and ran after it. Oscar tried to climb up the ball and rolled over the top of it.

Anni and Tom laughed heartily and they were happy that the show of "The Adventures of Crazy Cat" could be carried on.

Mrs. Chopra planned to visit market on Saturday. She was carrying an umbrella with her. There was a bench in front of a jewellery shop. She sat there for a while.

A red Alto car came and stopped in front of the shop. A man came out of the car. He had a cap on his head and a scarf round his face and neck. He broke the window of the jewellery shop. He started collecting gold jewellery. He put all into his bag. Then he rushed towards his car. Mrs. Chopra was watching this. As the man was rushing towards his car, she pushed her umbrella in front of him.

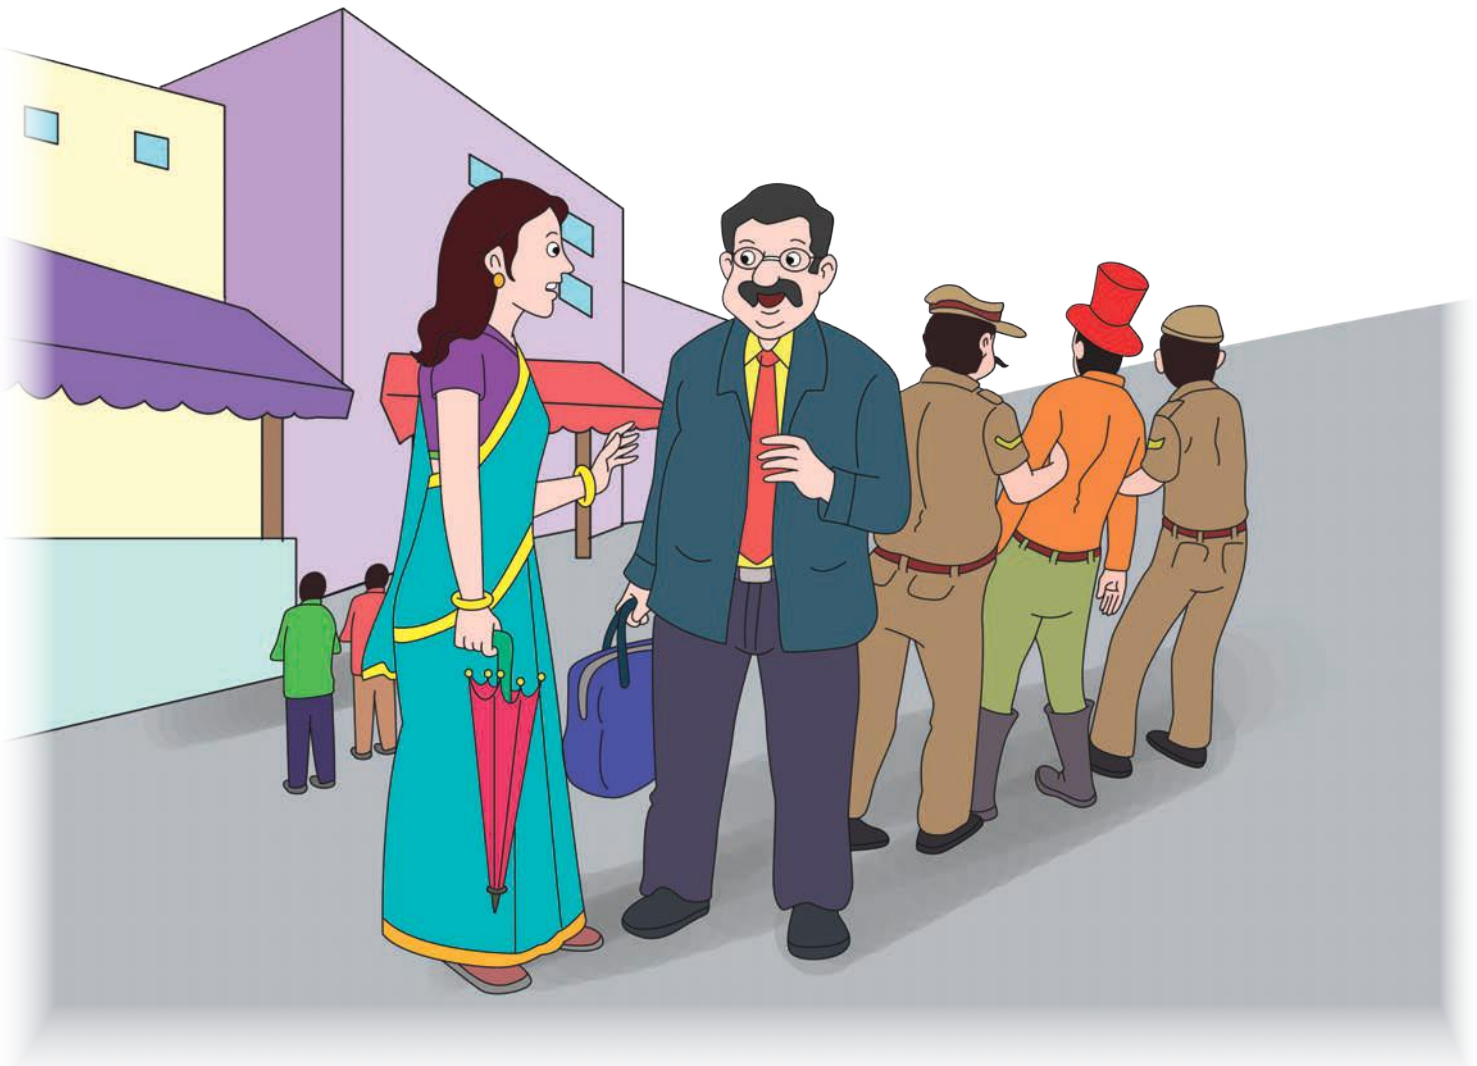

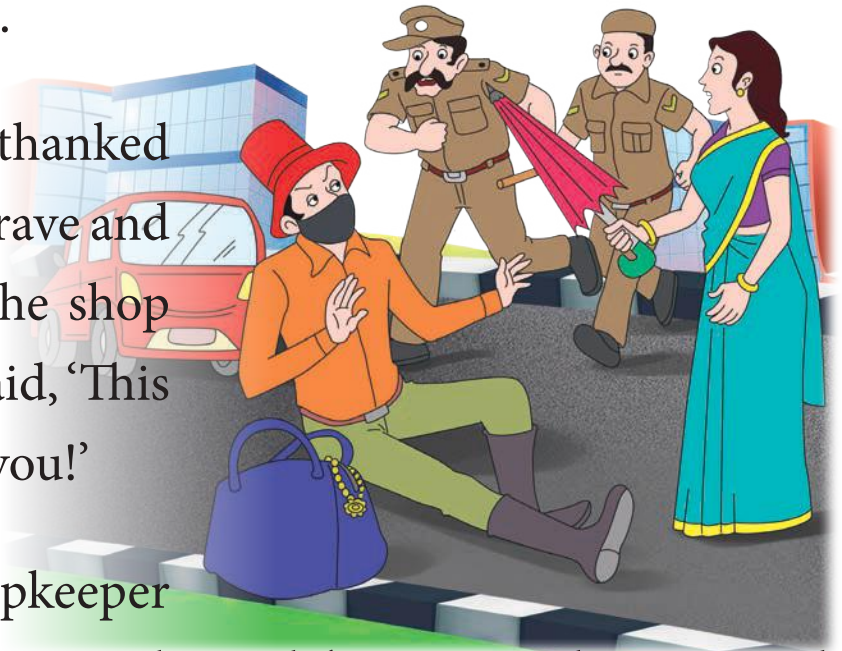

The man stumbled and fell.

‘Thief! Thief!’ shouted Mrs. Chopra. A police van was moving there. Two policemen ran and caught the thief red-handed. The shopkeeper and some other people also came. The policemen told the whole story to the shopkeeper. The shopkeeper collected his gold ornaments.

He went to Mrs. Chopra and thanked her. He said to her, 'You are brave and clever'. He took her inside the shop and gave her a gold ring. He said, 'This is my way of saying, 'Thank you!'
